And still all remains silent at Oyster Bay.

There is less said about "Roosevelt in 1912" than before the storm.

Everything that goes wrong now will be blamed on the Democratic members of congress, by Republican oracles.

Perhaps it will also be construed that the big financial panic of 1907 was due to the Democratic landslide of 1910.

Every dog has his day, the nights belong to the cats. —Teddy.

Is this a compliment to the Democrats, the Standpatters or both?

It didn't pay the Democratic candidate for governor of Nebraska to part company with Bryan. He owes his defeat to that act. The Nebraska legislature, however, is Democratic.

The Kansas legislature will be composed of 71 Republicans, 53 Democrats and one county has a tie. Of the 71 Republicans, about 15 are rated as standpatters. This promises a stormy legislative session.

Now that the campaign is over, a great many of the Republican papers are fair enough to say that the whiskey interests did not contribute a cent to the Hodges campaign. It is regrettable that they could not have been as fair before the election.

Gov. Stubbs and J. N. Dolley say that the railroads and whiskey interests rushed their money into the legislative districts and defeated many of the Republican candidates. What do the people of Barber county think of that accusation? Every man who voted for J.N. Herr knows that it is false.

Many of the members-elect of the incoming legislature are already discussing the mortgage tax law and there will doubtless be some legislation along this line. As matters now stand the holder of a mortgage on a farm pays taxes and the man who owns the farm pays taxes on the entire farm and interest on the mortgage. This, clearly, is double taxation and ought to be remedied, and with the new talent in the legislature, it is almost certain that something substantial will be done along this line.

Cut It Out

Some of the papers, among them the Medicine Lodge Cresset, are starting the publication of articles which are predicting all kinds of disaster—as a result of the recent elections. The Journal, of the same political faith, might also do likewise, with the excuse that such tactics were necessary to prove party loyalty, did it believe that this would bring about good in the future. But it won't. Instead, the calamity howler is one of the greatest menaces with which this land has to deal. The best way to bring on a crisis, lack of employment, misery to thousands, untold evils of every kind, is for the newspapers to constantly predict coming disaster. In the panic of 1907, just as productive of disaster as any in the history of the nation, every paper that amounted to a durn, shouted in columns of the blackest type, "Shut up, keep quiet, and the country will right itself in a few months." And it was so, because the press inspired confidence. Now, for Lord's sake, shut up. We're licked, and licked to a frazzle. Let's be men enough to stand up and take our medicine, and let the baby act for the enemies of popular government everywhere. The elephant trumpets. Dogs howl. It's a big comedown to leave the trumpet in order to take up the howl. Cut it out.—Kiowa Journal.
